

Make Your Own Soup Cans Like Andy Warhol

Name _____

Andy Warhol was a famous American artist who specialized in pop art – a kind of art that emphasized popular culture, advertising, and even comics. Among his most iconic works are those depicting Campbell's soup cans in various forms and color schemes. Warhol claimed to have eaten Campbell's soups nearly every day of his life for lunch. In the first space below, make your own soup can, complete with a logo, brand-name, and flavor. In the second space, do the same, but change the color scheme.
