

Re-Imaging Canada's Flag

Name _____

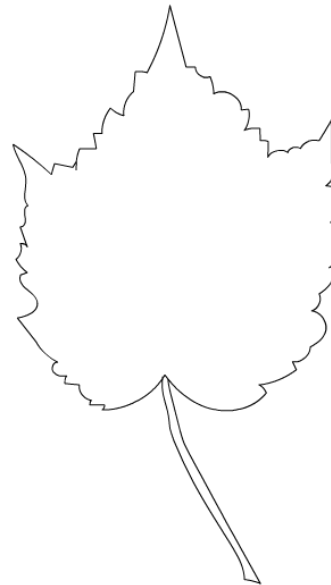

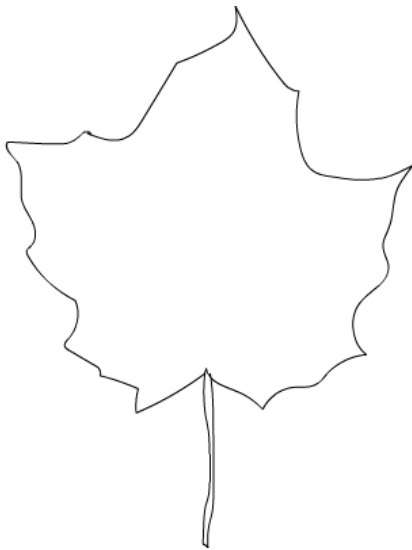

It's no secret that Canada's flag features a big, red maple leaf in the middle. What is mysterious, however, is the identity of the maple leaf. There are ten different kinds of maple trees in Canada. According to experts, while the leaf on Canada's flag resembles a general maple leaf, it's not an exact match of any the leaves from Canada's maple trees. What if Canada's flag featured a specific maple leaf? Re-make the Canada flag with one of the four maple leaves on the second page. Color it, cut it out, and paste in the flag below. The leaf, nor the flag, must be red.
